

proudly presents

Microbiome-Symposium 08. – 09. December 2022 – Bonn-Venusberg

We want you and your research project for our symposium!

Be our guest at this international symposium

Gain insight into the current state of microbiome research

Discuss recent topics in the field of microbiomics

Use the unique opportunity for open exchange and scientific discourse with other scientists

Find new research partners in the field of space and clinical microbiology

Our goal is to foster exchange on current microbiology topics and advance collective knowledge

We provide a broad stage for translational research and the exchange between different research fields decontamination – synthetic surfaces space flight & exploration – isolation effects – human health infection prevention – antibiotic resistance

Join us discovering exciting interfaces between space research and medical-clinical microbiology

Be there or participate

Present your research project in a short talk (15 + 5 min. Q&A) or with a poster

The best contributions will be awarded at the end of the event

Contact & Registration

20.10. – 11.11.22

microbiome@dlr.de

Participation is free of charge